

Changing the Course of Health Education

THANK YOU
for your participation in our 3rd Annual Interprofessional Education (IPE) Day.

The Center for Interprofessional Education and Collaborative Practice (CIPECP) was established in April 2015. The CIPECP coordinates student education across all six Schools, and our goal is to prepare students to practice in teams, as team-based care results in improved health outcomes for our communities. When you participate in IPE activities, your feedback is used to develop a strong foundation for future classroom, lab and clinical interprofessional opportunities.

Reflections on IPE Day

The 3rd Annual IPE Day gathered 750 students from all six Schools representing 25 health professional programs. The posters student groups created reflected creativity, teamwork and unity in immunization education and policy.

Many student reflections revealed new learning and a broader perspective of health. We would like to share some of those student quotes:

“I understand that a team approach would be the best way to educate patients on the benefits of vaccinations. All healthcare professionals have the ability to impact patient decisions through education.”

“We all have to play a collective role in vaccination education.”

“Many do not directly deal with vaccinations, but it is important that all health professionals work as a team (even when not in the room together) to accomplish the missions of public health.”

IPE Day would not have been possible without the support of the following faculty facilitators:
