New Center for Advanced Practice opens to rave reviews

The LSU Medical Alumni Association signed over the new Center for Advanced Practice to LSU yesterday and officially opened it. Leaders including DHH Secretary Alan Levine, lauded its unique technology and capacity to train physicians and other medical professionals.

Medical Alumni Association President Dr. Lee Monlezun

The one-of-a-kind Center is attracting attention from everyone from national industry and the National Board of Medical Examiners to elected officials and the business community.

The Center complements the Isidore Cohn, Jr., MD Student Learning Center which is under construction a floor above.

The $6 million project was managed and funded by the LSU Medical Alumni Association which raised donations from some 6,000 alumni practicing worldwide.

We are deeply grateful for their generosity and vision.

Strong receives Japan's highest foreign national honor

The Consulate-General of Japan in Nashville and the Japanese Garden Society of New Orleans hosted an Official Ceremony and Reception in celebration of the conferment of a decoration, The Order of the Rising Sun, Gold Rays with Neck Ribbon upon our own Dr. Jack Perry Strong on Tuesday.

Dr. Strong is one of five foreign nationals in the United States and 15 worldwide chosen by His Majesty the Emperor of Japan to receive this oldest of Japan's awards.

As Jack's family, colleagues, and friends looked on, Mr. Koichi Funayama, Acting Consul-General of Japan in Nashville, read a personal letter from the Mayor of Matsue, Japan – a sister city of New Orleans – before bestowing the decoration.
