LSUHSC outreach helps students learn

LSUHSC faculty, staff, and students donated an overwhelming number of supplies during the recent School Supply Drive. More than 400 pencils and pens, 140 notebooks, 29 tote/school bags, 60 pocket folders, 46 rulers, 37 highlighters, 30 packs of looseleaf paper, 33 crayon boxes, 33 composition books, and 25 manilla folders were donated. Contributions also included notepads, construction paper packs, binders, markers, dry erase markers, colored pencils, paint sets, pencil sharpeners, scissors, jump drives, hand sanitizer, paper clips, white out, post-it notes, tape, index card packs, book covers, pencil and pen cases, coloring books, and other items.

Dr. Fern T sien , Program Director, and participating LSUHSC students delivered the supplies to students at the partner schools in the LSUHSC/NO Schools Science Partnership Program.

LSUHSC's Physician Assistant program begins

January 9, 2013 marked the start of classes for students in the newest degree program at LSU Health Sciences Center New Orleans. The inaugural class of the Master of Physician Assistant Program at LSU Health Sciences Center New Orleans' School of Allied Health Professions consists of 30 students.

Master of Physician Assistant Studies Class of 2015

The intense, 29-month Master's degree program will prepare students to practice as health care providers and assume leadership roles within the medical community. Admission to the program is highly competitive.

The curriculum includes classroom, laboratory, and clinical experiences. The program is designed to incorporate evidence-based medicine, foster the development of critical thinking skills, and instill in each student a commitment to the community. The program seeks to educate a diverse student body that will provide culturally sensitive, patient-centered health care and to increase the number of primary care health care providers for the State of Louisiana. Students will have opportunities to learn in a variety of health care settings including hospitals, out-patient clinics, and physician offices.

Based on the health care needs of the state, the program will focus on the education of primary care clinicians, who together with their physician partners, will increase access to health care and provide cost-effective, quality care for the people in Louisiana. ■
