Databases Change at the LSUHSC Libraries

The LSUHSC Libraries have implemented changes link removed in search systems and databases. Some changes were effective July 1, 2003. Others will be effective August 1, 2003. These changes were made by LOUIS, a library consortium of Louisiana college and university libraries. As a result, some databases were added; others changed suppliers, and a few were eliminated and replaced by comparable products.

With these changes, the library added ten new databases. Of particular interest to library patrons are two in the health sciences: Health Source: Nursing/Academic Edition and Nursing and Allied Health Collection: Comprehensive Edition. Both databases contain important electronic journal content.

On August 1, 2003, the Ovid menu will change. The following databases will be offered:

- CINAHL,
- Health and Psychosocial Instruments,
- MEDLINE,
- MEDLINE Daily Update,
- Mental Measurements Yearbook,
- PREMEDLINE (which changes its name to MEDLINE In-Process & Other Non-Indexed Citations on September 2nd),
- Journals @ Ovid, and
- Your Journals @ Ovid.

The following databases will be deleted from the Ovid menu but accessible from the Additional Search Systems and Databases link removed link on the Library's homepage: Biological Abstracts (from EBSCO), Dissertation Abstracts (from Proquest), ERIC (from EBSCO), and PsycINFO (from EBSCO).

For more information or for assistance, contact the Reference link removed Department at the Isché Library (504) 568-6102 / (504) 568-8339, or at the Dental link removed Library (504) 619-8507.

MDConsult Again Available Through Library

The LSUHSC Library is pleased to announce that the clinical database MDConsult is once again available to the LSUHSC community. With 40 full-text medical textbooks and reference books, online clinical journals, medical news, patient handouts, and drug information, MDConsult is a valuable tool for many faculty, residents, and students. MDConsult, while designed with medical clinicians in mind, provides additional resources for Allied Health, Dentistry, Graduate School, and Nursing professions as well.

Links to access MDConsult can be found at the Library's homepage link removed and the LSU Health Sciences Center New Orleans Intranet link removed. MDConsult is available to those with an LSUHSC user name and password.

Things to remember when accessing MDConsult through our Library:

- For those who have previously accessed MDConsult, you may notice a minor change in the security. When you attempt to access the LSUHSC New Orleans Intranet, you may be prompted to enter your LSUHSC user name and password. Then, as you login to MDConsult, you will be asked to enter your LSUHSC user name and password again.
- New users of MDConsult: You will be required to register as a new user, answer several questions and "accept" an agreement to use MDConsult. You will only be required to do this upon the first time attempt to access MDConsult.
- All users of MDConsult: Please remember after using the MDConsult application, you MUST logoff by choosing the "logoff" option on the MDConsult webpage. We have only 6 concurrent licenses for everyone to share, so if you do not use the logoff option, then no one else will be able to use your license until after the 15 minute expiration disconnects your session.
- If you experience any trouble logging into MDConsult, please wait a few minutes and try again. If you continue to experience trouble, have your local computer supporter check your LSUHSC NT ID/Password. If you experience trouble after hours or during the weekend, you can contact the LSUHSC New Orleans Help Desk at (504) 568-HELP.
- For information on searching while in MDConsult, you may contact the LSUHSC Reference Librarians at (504) 568-6102 or (504) 568-8339, Monday through Friday from 8:00 am to 5:00 pm. You may also email reference@lsuhsc.edu link removed during those hours. The Dental Library's Reference Librarians can be reached at (504) 619-8507. Remember that user id and password questions should always be directed to an individual's departmental computer support personnel.

MDConsult is supported jointly by the following: the LSUHSC New Orleans Library, the LSUHSC New Orleans School of Medicine, the LSUHSC New Orleans School of Allied Health, the LSUHSC New Orleans School of Nursing, the Southwest Louisiana AHEC, and the Southeast Louisiana AHEC. The LSUHSC New Orleans Library is overseeing and coordinating this effort for the New Orleans LSU Health Sciences Center community.

LSUHSC Library Celebrates Medical Information Day

The LSUHSC Library celebrated the first-annual Medical Information Day on April 11, 2003. Medical Information Day was created by the Medical Library Association in recognition of "the invaluable information and vast range of services medical librarians provide for their institutions and local communities." The theme for the inaugural celebration was "@sk your Medical Librarian." Here at LSUHSC, Reference Librarians staffed an exhibit located in the Atrium between the Nursing/Allied Health Building and the Medical Education Building, at which they handed out information on Library databases and resources to hundreds of LSUHSC faculty, staff, and students.

As part of the celebration, the Library also held a drawing for two prizes. Sonja Washington, Nursing faculty, won the Netter t-shirt provided by the LSUHSC Bookstore, and Melva Gaspard, Clinics staff, won a copy of Stedman's Medical Dictionary provided by the publisher.

The Library was pleased with the positive response to the exhibit from the LSUHSC community, and plans to participate in Medical Information Day in the future.

DIGITAL DISSERTATIONS

Digital Dissertations link removed, LSUHSC's online connection to the Dissertation Abstracts database, is available via Proquest. Located from the Library's home page, under Additional search systems & databases link removed.

The database is successfully searched using Boolean set theory (AND, OR, NOT), selecting known fields like keyword, author, or title to refine the search, and truncation to find term suffixes.

One way to get started searching Digital Dissertations:

- Select Advanced search
- Type in a single search term in the query builder box and select keyword (KEY) from the pull-down menu
 - Multiple terms will be searched as phrases (left to right) unless Boolean terms are used
- Click ADD to send the term to the query box
- ADD as many terms as needed
- Use truncation to help with word suffixes
 - ? is for multiple letters (caregiv? retrieves caregiver, caregivers, or caregiving)
 - * is for one character (*caregiver retrieves caregiver or caregivers)
- Click the  to perform the search orks by LSUHSC graduates are available full-text in PDF format beginning in 1997. All other titles published since 1997 are available in PDF digital format and have 24 page previews available. Abstracts (150-words) for master's theses are available from 1988 forward, and author abstracts (350-words) for dissertations are available from 1980 forward. Desired titles may be purchased directly from UMI via the database; however, the Library's interlibrary loan link removed borrowing service may be a less expensive option.
