CHANGING THE COURSE OF HEALTH EDUCATION

A YEAR IN REVIEW

As we near the 5 year mark in our institution's commitment to interprofessional education (IPE), we would like to provide an overview of 2019 accomplishments. The Center for Interprofessional Education and Collaborative Practice (CIPECP) is the only centralized office dedicated to interprofessional training in the state of Louisiana. The collaborative effort of LSU Health-New Orleans faculty, staff, student and administration has led to many successes.

Our Team

This year we welcomed Dr. John Zamjahn from the Respiratory Therapy program as a new faculty liaison representing the School of Allied Health Professions. We wish Shannon Mangum from the Occupational Therapy program all the best in her retirement!

YEAR 1 HEALTH PARTNER PROJECT

The Health Partner community program provides students in the first year of their program an opportunity to learn together as a team about the health, health experiences, and health goals of community members. 60 student team representing various health professions conduct an interprofessional history intake with their Health Partner over 3 visits.

60 Health Partners

- Contributed to the education of LSU Health-New Orleans students
- Shared their experiences, goals, and opinions on health and healthcare
- Assisted in the development of team building for LSU Health-New Orleans students

HEALTH PARTNER QUOTE

"This project is great. I'm glad to have been a part of it. This will assist our future healthcare professionals with understanding the full picture of healthcare versus a specific lane."

YEAR 2 POSTER PRESENTATIONS

VIEW POSTERS NOW

Student teams were assigned an age range or a medical condition for the purposes of developing an interprofessional primary or secondary prevention assessment tool that could be conducted in 45 minutes. Students were also asked to provide some information on costs and reflect upon the importance of teamwork when developing comprehensive assessments.
