

CHANCELLOR'S Notes

January 4, 2008

Cefalu named 2007 Clinical Advisor of the Year

Charles Cefalu, MD, Chief of the Section of Geriatric Medicine, was chosen as the recipient of the 2007 Clinical Advisor of the Year Award by Louisiana Health Care

Review, the Medicare QIO. Louisiana Health Care Review, Inc. (LHCR) is the Quality Improvement Organization (QIO) working with physicians and health care professionals throughout Louisiana to improve health care.

LHCR is a statewide, nonprofit organization with more than 1,500 physician members dedicated to improving the quality of health care in Louisiana. LHCR reaches beyond the traditional acute care setting for quality improvement collaborations by working with Health Maintenance Organizations, Medicaid, nursing homes and others.

Yearbook advisor needed

After years of service, Dr. Andy Pellett has retired as yearbook advisor. If you're interested, please contact Dr. Joseph Moerschbaecher. The yearbook needs an advisor to be published.

Murals tout success

Our campus is sporting a new look – a visible display of LSU achievements, both on and off the football field. Just in time for the BCS National Championship Game, two full color murals are affixed to the CSRB 75 feet up. They're on the side of the building that faces Poydras Street and I-10.

The Healthcare mural celebrates the success of our faculty and students in education, patient care and research. The Football mural honors the SEC Champion LSU Tigers. They are a highly visible way of showing the city and the nation that we're alive and well and doing great things here.

They can be seen equally well during day and at night, affording maximum visibility. They have already attracted media attention. WWL radio and CityBusiness have run stories and national and regional media have been provided information about them for local color during their coverage surrounding the game.

We're most grateful to The Foundation for underwriting the cost of the project.

Designed by Leslie Capo, the murals were installed over the holiday break, finishing today. Kirk Deslatte, Ben Chan, and Mike May from Facilities contributed and University Police Captain Joseph, Lieutenant Gales, and Officers Steib and Woods all worked to make the project successful.

LSUHSC hosts National Championship Tailgating Party for Faculty, Staff and Students

Monday, January 7th

2:00 - 6:00 p.m.

T Lot, Corner of Gravier and S. Roman

(Must show LSUHSC ID for admission)

GEAUX TIGERS!

