Amoss named Chief of Hospital Medicine

John R. Amoss, MD, Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine, has been named Chief of the LSUHSC

Section of Hospital Medicine in the Department of Medicine.

A hospitalist practices only in the hospital, caring for primary care physicians' patients through their hospital course. This frees primary care physicians from running back and forth between the hospital and clinic and speeds treatment as tests results can be acted upon immediately.

We are the 20th medical school to establish a Section of Hospital Medicine.

Nursing Alumni celebrate 75 years

Nearly 200 nursing faculty, students, leaders, and alumni attended the LSUHSC Nursing Alumni Association's 75th Anniversary Gala last Saturday.

delicious food and drink, live music, and auction items galore.

Gift bags included lots of goodies as well as a book by Drs. Deborah Garbee and Denise Danna, Louisiana State University Health Sciences Center School of Nursing: A Historical Perspective, 1933-2010, a copy of which is now in the library.

The event raised nearly $5,000 which will be used to support scholarships to our nursing school.

Congratulations to Lisa Schulmeister, Megan Bell, and all who worked to make the gala such a success. We're grateful for the tremendous support of our nursing alumni.

Participants enjoyed a slide show of nursing highlights over the years, framed congratulatory letters, and a larger-than-life
