Top consumer web sites

The Consumer and Patient Health Information Section (CAPHIS) of the Medical Library Association (MLA) has recently put together a list of the "Top Ten" Most Useful Websites for health consumers. These sites were evaluated on strict criteria: credibility, sponsorship/authorship, content, audience, currency, disclosure, purpose, links, design, interactivity, and disclaimers. These are the sites, in alphabetical order:

Cancer.gov www.cancer.gov

This website has a large number of articles and informational handouts for both health professionals and patients, searchable by type of cancer or body location. There is also a section that explains possible oral complications of chemotherapy or radiation.

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) www.cdc.gov

A valuable resource for both the health professional and the consumer, the CDC has a site on oral health resources including state-by-state reports, device evaluation forms, a "Brush up" quiz for parents and water fluoridation maps.

familydoctor.org www.familydoctor.org

This website is for the consumer and has handouts that can be printed and distributed to patients. Some of the handouts are in both English and Spanish. A search on “oral” or “dental” will bring you to many of these links.

healthfinder® www.healthfinder.gov

A government site produced by the Office of Disease Prevention and Health Promotion, U.S. Department of Health and Hospitals, healthfinder has a section on health issues including oral health, sections for parents, and a section for children to do their own searching, enter art contests, play games, and search the Internet safely.

HIV InSite hivinsite.ucsf.edu

HIV InSite is a comprehensive site that includes research, treatment options, and a section profiling the oral manifestations of HIV.

Kidshealth® www.kidshealth.org

Kidshealth®, a product of the Nemours Foundation, is a great site with dental information written for the adult, adolescent, and child.

Mayo Clinic www.mayohealth.org

Oriented to adults searching for health information, this site has a drug information section and several articles on dental health conditions.

MEDEM www.medem.com/MedLB/medlib_entry.cfm

MEDEM is an information partnership of leading medical societies and contains articles on various dental and oral health issues including baby bottle tooth decay, tooth development, and tobacco use.

MEDLINEplus www.medlineplus.gov

MEDLINEplus, the National Library of Medicine’s own consumer health site, is in English and Spanish. Searchers can look for information on diseases or conditions, or drugs references, or browse a medical encyclopedia. MEDLINEplus has links to articles, handouts, and informational sites by the experts.

NOAH: New York Online Access to Health www.noah-health.org

This comprehensive site combines information from the experts into one forum. In English and Spanish, NOAH covers basic oral hygiene, common problems and procedures, special problems, pediatric dentistry, and information resources.

Stat!Ref: Medical information at your fingertips

Stat!Ref, a collection of over 30 full-text medical reference books, includes sources on topics such as drugs, nursing, geriatrics, family medicine, and medical specialties. Stat!Ref has, among others, AHFS Drug Information, Cassel's Geriatric Medicine, Degowin's Diagnostic Examination, Fitzpatrick's Color Atlas & Synopsis of Clinical Dermatology, Griffith's Five-Minute Clinical Consult, Merck Manual, Review of Natural Products, and USP DI Drug Information for the Health Care Professional.

When looking for information in Stat!Ref, you may search in one, all, or multiple works. You can use natural language or keywords with Boolean operators, or you can scan the table of contents of individual works. Help icons appear throughout the database. Because LSUHSC has access to Stat!Ref through a consortial agreement with Oklahoma Health Sciences Libraries, it is available only from PCs on the LSUHSC network.

Exporting citations in Ovid

The latest version of Ovid allows searchers to export citations directly into a bibliographic database. If you are using EndNote, Reference Manager, or ProCite to organize your bibliographies, you can now run a search in Ovid and directly export citations into the database. To do so, after you run your search in Ovid and select the citations that you want to save, scroll to "Citation Manager" at the bottom of any screen, select the desired set of citations, and then select the following in the remaining boxes:

Fields: Complete reference

Citation format: Direct export. Do not check "include search history"

Action: Save

When the file download window appears, click on open.

In the "Open with" window, select your bibliographic organization software. When this program opens, make sure that the file format is OvidWeb, then select the target database and click on transfer. Your citations will download into the database.

Critical Reviews in Oral Biology & Medicine now only online

As of volume 14, 2003, Critical Reviews in Oral Biology & Medicine, published by the IADR and the AADR, is available in electronic format only. The dental library subscription gives users on the LSUHSC network free access to the electronic format provided by Highwire Press. The entry for this journal in the library catalog includes a link to the online version. You can also go directly to the journal at <http://crobm.iadrjournals.org/>. The dental library owns volumes in print format from volume 3, 1992, through volume 13, 2002; full-text online begins with 2002.
