WebBridge Link Resolver: A New Option for Articles

On May 1, 2011, the Library officially launched the WebBridge Link Resolver, providing another avenue to access articles available through Library subscriptions, full-text databases, and myriad resources. The most significant aspect of this new service is that it lets you check available resources for an article directly from the citation.

The feature is currently offered in all EBSCOhost databases (CINAHL, Academic Search Complete, etc.), ProQuest Nursing and Allied Health Source, PubMed, RefWorks, Scopus, Web of Knowledge, and Web of Science. Look for the "LSUHSC-NO Check Full Text" icon, and when you click on it a new tab or window will open displaying any available resources for that article:

A screenshot of the WebBridge Link Resolver interface. At the top left is the LSU Health Sciences Center logo. The main heading is "WebBridge Link Resolver". Below it is a citation: "Public reporting of discharge planning and rates of readmissions. Author: Jha, Ashish K. Published in: The New England Journal of medicine, v. 361 no. 27, pp. 2637-45 Date: 2009". A callout box labeled "Citation of article from database" points to the citation. Below the citation, there are several options: "Retrieve this article from:" with links to "Massachusetts Medical Society" and "ProQuest Nursing & Allied Health Source"; "Electronic Journals List" with a link to "LSUHSC-NO Electronic Journals List"; "Search the Library Catalog" with a link to "LSUHSC-NO Library Catalog"; and "RefWorks Citation Export" with a link to "RefWorks". Callout boxes with arrows point to each of these options: "Link(s) to the full-text of the article or the journal webpage" points to the retrieval links; "Search the Electronic Journals List" points to the Electronic Journals List link; "Search INNOPAC, the Library Catalog" points to the Library Catalog link; and "Export the citation to your RefWorks account" points to the RefWorks link. At the bottom, there is a help section: "Need help? Email a Reference Librarian or see if the Library is online with live chat. For additional information, see the WebBridge Resource Guide."

If none are found, you will be offered a link to request the article, book, or chapter through the ILLiad Interlibrary Loan system. Also, as with many other Library resources, off-campus access requires a Library barcode and PIN.

Link resolver-enabled databases should be accessed through the Online Resources list of the Library's subscribed databases. Additionally, in order for the link resolver icons to display in PubMed, you need to follow a special link posted on the Library's web site.

More information about the WebBridge Link Resolver is available in this handout or through the LibGuides Link Resolver Help page. For assistance with this or any of the Library's resources, please contact a Reference Librarian at the Isché Library (504) 568-6102 / (504) 568-8339, or at the Dental Library (504) 941-8158.

LibGuides - Snapshot to New Tools

With over 40 guides and still growing - the new LibGuides are essentially starting points for research and information; they are guides composed by our own LSUHSC librarians pinpointing specific books, journals, websites and other tools that will be useful in your research.

Each LibGuide has its own unique design. You can use general search terms in order to find out what resources will be helpful in your research. You can sort the guides by clicking the Recent or Popular tabs atop the gold star on the LibGuides page.

You can put a face to the authors and can contact them directly if you have any questions or concerns. Want to learn more? The LibGuides link is conveniently located on the Library's homepage.

Filters Sidebar Replaces the Limits Page in PubMed

Effective May 10, 2012, to narrow PubMed results, users now use the Filters Sidebar:

Just click a filter to narrow your search results and a "Filters activated" message will display on the results page. Click on a term to activate or deactivate the filter.

To add additional filter categories to the sidebar, click the "Choose additional filters" link, select preferred categories, and then click Apply:

For assistance with PubMed or any of the Libraries' resources, please contact a Reference Librarian at the Isché Library (504) 568-6102 / (504) 568-8339, or at the Dental Library (504) 941-8158.

Announcements

In May, Auxiliary Enterprises raised the printing and photocopying prices campus-wide (including in the Libraries) from 8¢ to 10¢ per page.

An update was applied to the Libraries' Blog last month. The new design is a preview of the campus webpage look.

Stay tuned to more changes to the Libraries' web presense as the new campus webpage design and new campus logos are implemented.
